This office action is responsive to communications filed 04/16/2004.

Claims 1 – 9 are pending.

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 – 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Griinke (US 5,085,246).

Griinke discloses a valve assembly that regulates flow therethrough, the valve assembly comprising, a housing having an entrance port (18) and an exit port (lower portion of (22) joining the element 40) with a chamber in between; a plug (12) disposed in the chamber in a normally open position, a translating member i.e. spring (14) that biases the plug in the direction of the entrance port and said plug and spring cooperating to provide a flow resistance actuated by the force exerted on the plug such that the flow resistance increases with the increased force on the plug. The plug (12) has one or more channels (60, 62, 64) extending longitudinally therethrough.

It is noted that recitations pertaining to hydrogen storage system in claims 1 – 4 are regarded in this office action as reflective of intended use only and the system disclosed by Griinke is capable of such use.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 5 – 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kelley et al. (US 2002/0100682 A1) in view of Griinke (US 5,085,246).

Kelley et al. discloses a hydrogen storage system (70) having a source of hydrogen (30), a pressure containment vessel (100) and a valve (62) connected therebetween.

Griinke discloses a pressure-regulating valve that permits regulated flow therethrough and has a simple construction.

It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided in Kelley et al. a pressure regulating valve in place of the valve (62) for the purpose of providing regulated flow therethrough with the valve having a simple construction as shown in Griinke.

Kelley et al. discloses the hydrogen storage alloy in canister (100) to comprise a metal alloy including nickel.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
